DUTIES: Teaching in an accredited program to the latest version (2011) of the national occupational competency profile will require you to utilize interactive technology in both the classroom and the simulation laboratory with the Paramedicine Program at College of the North Atlantic's Bay St. George Campus. The Instructor will incorporate their own teaching style to existing lesson plans while meeting the learning objectives of the course material; work with other faculty members to ensure a coordinated and consistent teaching approach to ensure the planned curriculum for each course is delivered; prepare and implement various instructional strategies, techniques, and learning modules using an approved curriculum to achieve specified learning outcomes; establish student performance objectives and evaluation methods; meet with students regularly to gauge and evaluate progress; communicate effectively at a level appropriate to the ability of students and provide an emotionally safe learning environment that is conducive to learning; maintain appropriate classroom discipline following college policies and procedures; identify and resolve problem areas in learning; provide academic advising to students; participate in professional development activities to remain current in the paramedicine and post-secondary education professions; and actively participate in and contribute to accreditation activities to ensure the program is of the highest standard. Other related duties consistent with providing and maintaining quality student-centered instruction will be required.

QUALIFICATIONS: The prestige and industry recognition of College of the North Atlantic's Paramedicine Program is a direct reflection of the quality of Instructors and their commitment to student success. Specifically, to teach in our accredited program, you are an Advanced Care Paramedic (ACP) and have at least five years of recent, relevant work experience in the paramedicine field. Primary Care Paramedics (PCP) with five years of recent, relevant work experience in the paramedicine field may be considered to instruct first year courses only. Current provincial registration is required prior to commencing employment. In addition to the academic and experience requirements, you are knowledgeable in the paramedicine field and have an understanding of classroom management including effective teaching and learning methods currently being utilized in a post-secondary environment. You have a student-centered approach to learning with a demonstrated commitment to student success. You are a consummate professional with exceptional verbal and written communication skills; strong problem solving skills; sound organizational skills; in addition to having the ability to collaborate and work as a member of a faculty team while establishing effective working relationships with students, faculty, and staff.

SALARY: Commensurate with qualifications and experience in accordance with College of North Atlantic's Faculty Collective Agreement.

College of the North Atlantic is an Equal Opportunity Employer.

The successful candidate will be required to provide a recent Certificate of Conduct.

Please apply online complete with resume at www.cna.nl.ca/careers. Verification of credentials and the names and contact information of three professional references, including a current supervisor reference, will be required as part of the interview process.

Candidates must clearly demonstrate in their resume that they meet all of the required qualifications. Failure to do so may result in a candidate being screened out of the competition.
